

Christ Church Arts Project, Autumn 2019

Year 5

Year 5 used Brusho paint to create colour, shape and form of the sky. They covered the paper with water first and then painted on the colour. They learnt that the water base helped to blend the colours together.

Year 5 were inspired by landscape paintings by John Constable and WJM Turner. Constable lived and worked in Hampstead for ten years nearly two hundred years ago. The children learnt how these artists incorporated sky into their compositions of Hampstead Heath.

Year 5 were visited by a local artist who showed them how he paints landscapes of the Heath. He explained the skyline could be transferred on to the paper and then gone over using acrylic paints.
