

We learned all about bullying and how it can happen both online and offline. We learned what to do if we witness bullying and practised saying what we would say whilst being an “upstander”

This year we weren't able to swap friendship bracelets in person but we enjoyed writing notes to our new friend and enjoyed receiving wonderful bracelets too!

PSHE Week: Diversity and Relationships
 This week, Year 3 learned about a range of feelings, bullying, different types of families and how we are all unique and different.

We learned that some people use sign language to communicate and even to sing songs. We learned some sign language to “sing” the song “Friendly Robot”.

For homework we created presentations all about our family. We tried to surprise our friends with facts about ourselves that even they did not know. Our friends then asked questions based on our presentations.

We read the Big Book of Families and learned about lots of different types of families. Lots of children found it really interesting to realise just how different each of our lives are. We then drew a neighbourhood made up of lots of different types of houses with different types of families living in them.

We learned about the Equality Act and the different protected characteristics. We learned about the first female Supreme Court Justice and debated different cases she has judged. We realised that whilst some decisions are not simple, everybody has the right to not be discriminated against based on their skin colour, religion etc.

We extended our vocabulary regarding feelings and emotions by playing a game and discussing examples of when we have felt each of the different feelings. We then created a word bank of different feelings and synonyms and used these to create our own picture book based on “My Many Coloured Days”
