

National Portrait Gallery – Year 4

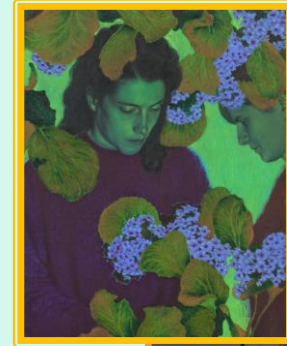

30th September 2026

Year 4 went on an amazing trip to the National Portrait Gallery to get inspired and take part in a mixed media portraits workshop.

We took part in a workshop exploring different portraits and how artists may have created them. We considered what these portraits were telling us.

When we arrived, we looked around the Herbert Smith Freehills Kramer Portrait Award 2026. We chose one portrait to focus on, and became detectives to consider why the artist may have used particular colours, objects and even facial expressions on their subject.

We ended our day back in the classroom, where we used the different things we had learnt and created throughout the session to create a mixed-media collage portrait.
